Re: USGS OL1 LiDAR Cost Sharing Project

In 2015 as part of a cost-sharing program through the United States Geological Survey (USGS), three federal agencies including USGS, FEMA, NRCS, as well as Cook, Kane, Lake, and McHenry Counties worked together to begin a program of acquiring USGS OL1 LiDAR (Light Detection and Ranging) data. At the beginning of this project, DuPage County had just taken delivery of its own LiDAR data that was captured in 2014. As a result, we did not participate in this OL1 cost-sharing project.

With that said, we now have the opportunity to update our LiDAR data, due to the participation of Cook and Kane Counties. In addition, USGS ran an east & west flight pattern, resulting in a flight over DuPage County. In doing so, they captured LiDAR data for DuPage which is now processed and available. This provides DuPage County the opportunity to take part in the cost-sharing program and acquire this updated and highly accurate LiDAR point cloud data that was part of this project.

The 2014 LiDAR data for DuPage County was captured with a 4ppm (points per meter) point cloud. As a specification of the USGS OL1 LiDAR project, this data was captured using GIEGER mode technology versus the traditional LiDAR acquisition technology, resulting in data being captured at 20ppm. With this high point cloud, we will be able to obtain higher and more detailed elevation, surface, and terrain data.

This new elevation data will be extremely valuable to the County GIS Division and other departments such as Stormwater, DOT, Environmental and others, along with various municipal entities.

The first image below is an example of our 2014 LiDAR at 4 ppm followed by an image from the USGS OL1 project at 20 ppm. The difference in the density and detail of the data is very apparent when shown on similar scales.
2014 LiDAR Data at 4ppm
